

OIL COMMITTEE ADJOURNS FOR 10 DAYS

BOB ASKS PROBE OF COAL DEALS

Alaskan Policy Of Fall Causes New Sensations

Investigation Is Called Forth By Letter Of John E. Ballaine, Seattle

NAVY BOYCOTTED MINES

Scheme Said To Be Parallel To Teapot Dome Dealings, Of Secretaries

Washington, D. C.—Senator LaFollette, Republican, Wisconsin, who introduced the resolution that started the oil inquiry proposed another Saturday, also dealing with the leasing policies of former Secretary Fall.

Mr. LaFollette's new measure, prepared after John E. Ballaine of Seattle, an Alaskan railroad contractor had presented allegations to President Coolidge relating to the transfer of the Matanuska coal reserve from the navy to the interior department, calls upon the interior secretary to submit his department's records on the matter to the senate.

DEMAND COPY OF TRANSFER

A copy of the transfer agreement between Secretaries Fall and Denby is asked in the resolution, together with all executive orders and other papers, including any lease made, applications for leases and correspondence on the subject.

Mr. Ballaine, in a letter presented to the "Franklin" today, asserted that investigation for the transfer of jurisdiction was begun by the two secretaries in July, 1921, and that the records would show plans to lease it for 50 years on terms "exactly parallel" with those of the Teapot Dome oil reserve transaction. No lease was made, he said, but the transfer was followed by suspension of mining in the Matanuska field and refusal of the navy to utilize Alaskan coal.

KUFAHL HURLS LIE AT WOMAN

Takes Stand In Own Defense And Denies All Knowledge Of Poison Plot

Elkhorn.—Ernest Kufahl, taking the stand in his own defense Saturday in his trial before Judge Chester Fowler for the murder of Edward Schauda, hurled a lie at Mrs. Schauda, denying all connection with the man's death and with the alleged plot to poison the Schauda children. He declared he knew of no strychnine in the house and said he did not mix any poison in prune juice to be given to Schauda, contradicting flatly testimony of Mrs. Schauda which laid the blame for the poison plot on his shoulders. The case is not expected to go to the jury before early next week. Mrs. Schauda's trial will follow that of Kufahl, with Judge E. B. Belden, of this circuit sitting.

U. S. SENATOR SHOT IN HEAD BY DRY AGENT

Frank L. Green, Vermont, Injured By Bullet Under Shadow Of Capitol

By Associated Press

Washington, D. C.—The prohibition situation in Washington, for months a center of criticism and controversy, has culminated in the shooting down of a United States senator almost within the shadow of the capitol.

As a result, the whole muddle of conflicting opinions, charges, explanations, denials and countercharges that have characterized efforts to enforce the prohibition laws here seems likely to have a thorough airing in congress.

Senator Frank L. Green of Vermont was shot in the head Friday night as a car containing prohibition agents whirled out of an alley into Pennsylvania-ave in pursuit of another automobile suspected of carrying a boot-legger.

After an X-ray examination Saturday morning physicians announced that the bullet which hit Senator Green had not remained in his head. The discovery was regarded as extremely encouraging and those in attendance said they expected him to recover. The senator was walking with his wife when the shooting occurred, less than three blocks from the capitol building. He was hit just over the left eye by a bullet fired from one of the automobiles apparently by a prohibition agent. A dry agent is under arrest but no formal charges have been placed against him.

COURT REFUSES INDIAN CLEMENCY

Judge Graess Makes Decision Which Affects All Tribes-men In State

By Associated Press

Green Bay.—Abe Katchenago, Menominee Indian who is serving a five-year sentence in the Wisconsin state reformatory on a charge of committing a statutory offense against a 15-year-old white girl in Feb. 1921, will not be granted his liberty under the terms of a decision Friday afternoon by Circuit Judge Henry Graess. The decision affects all Indians in the state who still maintain their tribal relations with the government.

Katchenago pleaded guilty to the charge in Oconto circuit court and was sentenced in 1921. P. J. Winter, Shawano attorney, petitioned the Brown circuit court for a writ of habeas corpus claiming that since Katchenago belonged to a tribe still maintaining its tribal relations and since the offense was committed upon the Indian reservation the trial court had no jurisdiction and that only the federal court or the tribal courts could deal with the case.

Judge Graess held in his decision that the Wisconsin Supreme court had held that Indians were subject to the jurisdiction of the state courts for offenses committed within the boundaries of the state.

An appeal may be taken, it is said, to the state supreme court.

Fund Shortage Shows Double Life Of Clerk

St. Paul, Minn.—How a trusted cashier on a salary of $125 a month was able to dine and sup with theatrical beauties was revealed here Friday when John Vincent Dowling, cashier of the Hackett-Gates-Hurty Co., wholesale hardware dealers, pleaded guilty in district court to a charge of grand larceny in the first degree after an alleged shortage of $60,000 had been uncovered.

Dowling will be brought before the court Wednesday for further examination and sentencing. Under Minnesota law the penalty for the charge is a prison term not to exceed ten years.

The specific charge against Dowling is the theft of $700 from the company, Sept. 1, 1923.

Dowling's speculations extended over a period of ten years, during which time he led a dual life. Cultured, a college graduate with marked ability in music and dramatic art, by night he lived in a dream world of great artists and actors.

Now that the day of atonement is at hand, Dowling has put his piano, musical and dramatic libraries, automobile and all that he has into the balance to repay his defrauded employers.

Boy, 15, Gets North Pole Radio Post

By Associated Press

Fort Angeles, Wash.—The first radio communication in 15 days with Captain Donald B. MacMillan's exploration ship Bowdoin, frozen in approximately 760 miles from the North Pole was established Friday by Everett Sutton, 15 years old, amateur wireless operator of this city. The Bowdoin operator declared everyone aboard was in the best of health.

JULIUS KAHN DIES AT HIS HOME HERE SATURDAY MORNING

Head Of Appleton Toy Company Succumbs After Brief Illness

Julius Kahn, 63, died at his home, 634 North-st, early Saturday morning after a brief illness. Mr. Kahn lived in Appleton for 30 years and for 25 years has been connected with the Appleton Toy and Furniture Co. At the time of his death he was president of the company. During his first five years of his residence in Appleton, he conducted a jewelry store where F. C. Hyde, and Co. is now located.

He was a member of the Masonic order, past master of the Blue lodge, past high priest of the chapter; past patron of the Eastern Star, treasurer of the Boy Scouts, a member of the Rotary club, Elks lodge, Knights of Pythias, United Commercial Travelers, and secretary of the Temple Zion congregation. Mr. Kahn was one of the oldest manufacturers in the valley.

He is survived by his widow, two children, Herbert and Florence; five brothers, Albert of New York City and Emil, Oscar, August and William of London, England; one sister, Mrs. S. Reichman of London, England.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Monday from the home. The Rev. Samuel E. Bishop of Milwaukee is to conduct the service. Interment will be made in the Temple Zion cemetery.

BOB OBJECTS TO HARDING'S AIDE

LaFollette Opposes Confirmation Appointment

By Associated Press

Washington.—Objection to confirmation of George B. Christian Jr., former secretary of President Harding as member of the Federal Trade commission was raised Saturday by Senator LaFollette, Republican of Wisconsin, on the ground that while at the White House Mr. Christian had interested himself in an important case then and now pending before a committee.

The case is that of the Famous Players-Lasky corporation against which the commission issued a complaint in May 1921. Senator LaFollette's opposition was announced after a hearing before the senate Interstate Commerce committee to which he was called to the White House by Mr. Christian and criticized for having acted without giving the company a hearing.

FEAR FOUL PLAY IN DISAPPEARANCE

By Associated Press

Grand View.—The mysterious disappearance of Clyde Lake, who has been engaged in logging operations near Snyder Spur on the Omaha railroad about one mile south of here, has led friends to fear foul play.

Lake left the camp here where he employed about 30 men and 8 teams. Friday morning Feb. 1, to go to Mason where he was to arrange for hay and feed to be shipped to his camp. He has not been heard from since.

Efforts to locate the man have so far proved fruitless.

By Associated Press

Antigo.—Robert Engel, 43, violently insane and suffering from the hallucination that some one was trying to take his life was brought to this city Thursday from White Lake, 23 miles distance by Deputy Sheriff D. P. Corbett. The trip was made with a snowmobile. Engel believed each farmhouse light was an approaching train and tried to escape. He was committed to the Northern State hospital after examination.

Democrats Support M'Adoo To Prevent Party Disruptions

Maneuver By Which Former Wilson Aide Passes Buck To Supporters Will Be Successful, Lawrence Says

By DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright 1924 by the Post Pub. Co.)

Washington.—The extraordinary maneuver by which William Gibbs McAdoo has placed himself in the hands of his friends and supporters who are to decide whether he should continue to be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the presidency "will end in a decision to support him."

Mr. McAdoo was ready, it is said, to withdraw his name from the race when his advisors insisted that the question was one for the McAdoo supporters to decide. And there are several reasons why they will not let go of Mr. McAdoo even though there may be convincing arguments as to the injury done his candidacy by the recent disclosure that he was counsel for E. L. Doherty, oil magnate, in Mexican matters.

One reason is that the withdrawal of Mr. McAdoo would leave up in the air all the supporters who had become attached to his boom and would play into the hands of the anti-McAdoo forces in the Democratic party. The friction inside the party is far more significant than the personality of the candidate. It is a difference on fundamentals and resembles very much the condition of affairs which preceded the Baltimore convention of 1912 when the progressives and reactionaries were battling for control of the party.

WILL CONTROL CHOICE

Not a few of the anti-McAdoo influences are of the boss-ridden kind who fought Woodrow Wilson not only at Baltimore but later on. The McAdoo men are determined that if their leader is not nominated they will control the nomination of someone who is in harmony with the McAdoo-Wilson wing of the party.

Even if Mr. McAdoo's candidacy were unwise and most of his friends are not yet ready to believe that an honest record is anything to be ashamed of, there is every likelihood that the momentum of the McAdoo boom is too important to the progressive elements in the Democratic party to let it be dissipated by the recent disclosures.

On the other hand, if Mr. McAdoo survives the next few weeks of political bombardment and the controversy takes on the turn most damaging to the Republican administration there is no telling what effect the whole affair will have on the McAdoo boom.

MAKE GOOD HEADWAY

The McAdoo supporters had been making remarkable headway. Undoubtedly they already had gathered a majority strength and were close to the two thirds requirement. Some discouragement has been encountered since Mr. McAdoo was a corporation lawyer. If it were not for the unfairness of the attack, many of his own friends who see the damage done would abandon his candidacy. Loyalty to him as well as a desire to keep intact the strength already developed for the pro-Wilson kindred of William Gibbs McAdoo in the nominating race. The meeting in Chicago from all present indications will turn into a demonstration of loyalty and support.

FORGOTTEN CHILD DIES IN FLAMES

Sister Playing With Matches Sets House Afire; Tot Hides Under Bed

By Associated Press

Calumet, Mich.—The body of Elno Kaura, age 6, was found in the ruins of the Kaura family home here Friday after a fire which started when the boy's sister was playing with matches, had burned the house and contents to the ground.

The mother was absent at the time and the father was sleeping on the second floor. He was awakened by the flames and dashed from the house with two children. The dead boy was missed when the parents and other 9 children gathered at a neighbor's house. The girl who had caused the fire then told of her brother having crawled under the bed when he saw the flames. A search of the ashes where the bed had been, disclosed the charred body of the child.

'SHOOT TO KILL' IS BUTLER'S COMMAND

By Associated Press

Philadelphia, Pa.—As a result of the large number of holdups and robberies reported Friday Director of Public Safety Butler Saturday started a concerted 24-hour drive against bandits and thieves. "Shoot to kill" was the order he gave his lieutenants in outlining plans for the campaign.

"I'd give my soul if one of you fellows would kill one of these guys who go around snatching pocketbooks," the director told the lieutenants. "That would be it. Shoot them; during the next 24 hours let's end it any way."

During the police extension of time to the police to round up all suspects they could find "We virtually will have to forget the liquor violators and go after the gunmen and thugs," he said.

POMERENE IS RETAINED

Oil Operators And Publishers Will Be Among Those Who Are To Testify

By Associated Press

Washington.—The senate oil committee after developing sensations in starting rapidly for a month past has taken a ten-day recess.

Before adjourning Friday night it received testimony regarding rumors about the sale of President Harding's Marion Star, which had been given circulation by Frank A. Vanderlip. Also it received word from Omer H. Kahn and E. F. Foskum that they had no knowledge of any $1,000,000 of slush fund sent to Washington for distribution to public officials and others.

The committee in addition approved the nomination of special government counsel in the oil lease cases, Atlee Pomerene, of Canton, O., and Owen J. Roberts, of Philadelphia. Mr. Roberts was appointed in place of Silas H. Strayer, whose nomination was withdrawn Thursday.

The committee in addition approved the nomination of special government counsel in the oil lease cases, Atlee Pomerene, of Canton, O., and Owen J. Roberts, of Philadelphia. Mr. Roberts was appointed in place of Silas H. Strayer, whose nomination was withdrawn Thursday.

The nominations will be called up soon in the senate, where Senator Dill, Democrat, Washington, will continue the fight on Mr. Pomerene which started in the committee.

Adjournment of the committee was contemporaneous with a break in the New York stock market which resulted from circulation of reports that one big operator had become bullish on the theory that public confidence had become undermined by the oil disclosures.

MANY WITNESSES REMAIN

Although the committee made rapid progress this week in clearing up its witness list, many persons remain to be heard. Among them is Edward B. McLean, publisher of the Washington Post, who has been called from Palm Beach for questioning with respect to the slush fund report and also the checks for $100,000 which he has testified were returned to him uncashed by Albert B. Fall.

Harry F. Sinclair, who is now returning from Europe, may be one of the first witnesses after the recess. The committee desires to question him particularly regarding the unpaid loan of $25,000 which his personal attorney, J. W. Zevely, has testified he made to Fall within three months after he had retired from the cabinet.

Moreover, it desires to interrogate him further about circumstances surrounding the lease of Teapot Dome and a conference which he had with Fall at the former secretary's New Mexico ranch. Other subjects which the committee want to take up with him are the conditions under which he agreed to pay $100,000 to the Elks and Big Oil Co. for their oil and gas lease and the contract for the payment of another $100,000 to J. Leo Stark, a Denver oil operator and Frederick G. Bonfils, publisher of the Denver post.

Other witnesses for whom subpoenas have been issued include John T. King, former Republican national committeeman from Connecticut, and others connected with the Association for the Protection of American Rights in Mexico.

ROYCE NAMED CHIEF OF STATE TEACHERS

By Associated Press

Madison.—A. M. Royce, president of the Platteville State Normal school, was elected president of the Southern Wisconsin Teachers association at the annual convention here Saturday.

Other new officers include: Maybelle Bush, Kenosha, first vice president; R. Bell, Milton, treasurer; Laura Stark, Madison, secretary. The convention, attended by 1,500 teachers, endorsed the educational program outlined by State Superintendent Callahan.

H. S. Students Express Ideas For Improvement Of Parks In Appleton

Large Majority Of Young People Want Improvements In Pierce Park—Other Playgrounds Considered

That Pierce park should be improved before any of the other Appleton parks was the opinion of 46 high school students who have been studying a great deal about the city in "Problems of Democracy" class. The park vote was made by 67 of the students. Seven wanted Erb park improved at once, four wanted further improvements at Jones park, one wanted an extension of that park three thought the city park needed immediate attention, two want the Packard-st. ravine made into a park one would have the College-ave boulevard made attractive, one would like to see the golf club made into a city park, one would have the Maple Grove-st. ravine made into a park and one wants Telulah park preserved and improved.

ARGUE PARK NEEDS
The merits and possibilities of all the parks are discussed in the classes and the students voice many arguments about the various park projects. No attempt is made to have the student conform to one ideal in the matter of park development although every effort is made to have the students see the value of park space in every growing city. Differences of opinion and individual thinking is encouraged.

Of the 46 who want Pierce park improved, 41 want drives through and around the park, 39 want formal gardens, 34 demand children's playgrounds, 25 wish for picnic grounds, 22 think a central fountain would improve the appearance of the park, 20 want tennis courts for the athletes, 18 think a baseball diamond is essential and the same number want walks through the park.

A band stand received the recommendation of 16, and 13 want bridges over the railroad. Twelve are for losser fountains while eleven voted for a dance pavilion. Ten votes were cast for acquisition of the area between Pierce and Alicia parks while nine wanted monuments. Seven thought hedges along the drives would be a great improvement while five favored a comfort station.

FOUR WANT ZOO
Five voted for a beach along the river. Four want the natural beauty preserved and the same number want a Zoo. Three are for a wading pool, skating rink and bath house, while two want a swimming pool and statuary. One vote each was cast for ornamental lighting, a ski slide, Japanese, sunken gardens and to leave the place wild.

In the order of their importance, to the students the following improvements were suggested for Erb park, formal flower beds, large fountains, winding drives, natural woods, playground, shrubbery, comfort station, dance hall, baseball field, tennis courts, band stand, gravel paths, aeroplane field, monument, skating rink and soft ball field.

Some changes would be made in Jones park by the students. They would place gravel walks through the present athletic field with a fountain in the center, change the wading pool to a sunken garden and place a picturesque stone bridge over the ravine at Lawrence-st. The plan for acquiring the ravine from the park to College-ave is advocated, including the removal of billboard, erection of a pavilion and the building of a stairway from College-ave down to the park.

WANT BANDSTAND
For the City park, the students suggest a band stand near the center, improved fountain, playgrounds, formal flower beds, auto drive through park, tennis courts, baseball diamond, statues, flower borders for walks, skating rink swimming pool and an enlargement of the park.

The students suggested a drive through the new park near Sherman-pl. sunken gardens, shrubbery, formal flower beds, artificial pond and a fountain. The student who wished to

MADISON PRAISES LAWRENCE SINGERS

Lawrence college glee club made a fine impression upon a large audience which attended the concert at the First Methodist church at Madison Tuesday night, according to the music critic of the Wisconsin State Journal.

"What impressed me profoundly was the rendering of each individual selection," the article states. "Each received the best possible expression, and one readily recognized the training of a master. Throughout the program the clear diction, fine clear tones, shading from pianissimo to forte, were outstanding features."

Special praise was accorded Miss Lucille Mensel, who accompanied the club as soloist, as well as George Meacham, bass, and G. Bernard Johnson, tenor. Two instrumental selections by LaVahn Maesch, piano accompanist, and Harry Sisson, violinist, also were well received. The curialbe erbia the otherhalf flapius Hundred Pipers was the most popular number of the program.

BUILDING PERMITS

A building permit has been issued by R. M. Connelly, city engineer and building inspector, to Schroeder & Tueders for improvements to be made to a building at 708 Appleton-st. which will include a new front. The present porch will be removed.

have College-ave boulevard improved suggests a monument at each end, a fountain in the center and formal flower beds. The Maple Grove park should have a walk through it, fountains, a band stand, formal flower beds and provisions for picnic parties. The plan for Telulah park is for leaving the place wild but providing a good drive through it. There should be provision for flowers and it should be made a convenient picnic place.

ORDER SUIT WHEN PARDEE REFUSES TO RETURN MONEY

County Will Endeavor To Collect $891 Said To Have Been Paid Illegally

Legal proceedings to recover $891.63 said to have been illegally paid to Arthur Pardee will be commenced at once by the county board of supervisors, as a result of the refusal of Pardee's attorneys to return the amount demanded. The county board Friday not only authorized suit against Pardee but also authorized the employment of additional counsel to assist the district attorney in the action.

The resolution introduced on Thursday by Supervisor P. H. Ryan of Appleton to pay the Fidelity Deposit, company the same amount on its claim was on Friday morning withdrawn by Mr. Ryan upon the advice of special legal counsel for the finance committee.

TWO SUITS IMMINENT
The amount involved was paid by the clerk and vice chairman of the board a year ago upon the advice of the district attorney when Pardee filed a judgment claim against Blake Paving and Construction company which had funds due it from the county on its construction of the county garage. This payment was illegal, in the opinion of the attorney general. The Fidelity Deposit company which had bonded the construction company in this district asked for the amount. District Attorney John A. Lonsdorf advised against it until the legality of the payment is settled in court. The court might decide that the payment was legal and in that case the county would have forfeited another $891.63, he said.

Action to recover this amount from the county also has been threatened by the bonding company, and thus two lawsuits are imminent.

During Friday morning's sessions approximately $300 worth of taxes were declared illegally collected and were ordered refunded and the amounts charged back to the several municipalities.

MORE PATROLED ROADS
Two proposed patrol sections of the county patrol system were provisionally accepted, the condition being that the towns first put the roads in approved condition before they can be accepted as patrolled roads. The roads are in Grand Chute, Greenville, Liberty and Horton.

A sum of $225 in addition to $75 remaining in the fund for that purpose was appropriated for extra clerk hire in the county treasurer's office. Upon the recommendation of the finance committee, the regular audits will hereafter be made quarterly instead of monthly. Purchase of a calculating machine at approximately $500 was authorized for the county clerk's office. A claim of Jennie C. Gainer for $50 as interest on county high way bonds that through an error had not been collected was allowed.

East Central States More Prosperous Than Atlantic Coast Group

Michigan Is Most Active State In Section But Wisconsin's Dairying Interests Keep Business Stable

By Associated Press.
Rabson Park, Fla.—"The East Central states are more active and are distinctly in a better position business-wise than either New England or the North Atlantic group," according to Roger W. Babson, statistician. The third section of his detailed report on business conditions in the United States and Canada, gives his findings in the six states comprising this group.

"Michigan is leading," says Mr. Babson, "with a gain of 23 per cent as compared with business a year ago. Kentucky comes second in the group showing a gain of 17 per cent; Indiana follows with a gain of 16 per cent; Ohio also shows a gain of 16 per cent while Wisconsin figures 11 per cent better than last year. Illinois is running an even 10 per cent ahead of the figures of twelve months ago. This section as a whole shows an increase of 13 per cent over last year."

FAVOR ILLINOIS
"The fact that Michigan is leading in this section, with Illinois trailing may possibly be due to the fact that Michigan manufactures the greatest number of automobiles and Illinois purchases the greatest number of automobiles and Illinois purchase the greatest number of new cars. Today Illinois has the cars and Michigan has the money. It is too early to decide which is the better off, this will depend, of course, upon the use to which cars and money is put. Conservative bankers in the meantime are favoring Illinois because of its diversified sources of income."

"Twenty-five years ago this section was almost entirely agricultural. But since that time I have been more and more impressed on each visit with the increasing diversity of interest and the changes that have taken place in the sources of purchasing power. Today we find income derived from the following sources:

"Illinois, manufactures 61 per cent, crops 27 per cent, mineral products 7 per cent, livestock products 5 per cent.

"Indiana, manufactures 52 per cent, crops 25 per cent, mineral products 6 per cent, live stock products 7 per cent.

"Ohio, manufactures 69 per cent, crops 19 per cent, mineral products 7 per cent, live stock products 5 per cent.

"Kentucky, manufactures 24 per cent, crops 52 per cent, mineral products 16 per cent, live stock products 8 per cent.

"Wisconsin, manufactures 52 per cent, crops 32 per cent, mineral products 1 per cent, live stock products 15 per cent.

"Michigan, manufactures 71 per cent, crops 18 per cent, mineral products 6 per cent, live stock products 5 per cent.

"These statistics show that 55 per cent of the income of these six states is industrial rather than agricultural. The crops of course still are important and it is interesting to compare returns on this source of income with last year. Indiana, for instance, shows a gain of 16 per cent in 1923-1924 crops over 1922-1923. Illinois, shows an increase of 11 per cent; Ohio, 15 per cent gain; Kentucky, 5 per cent gain; Michigan 13 per cent gain and Wisconsin a 3 per cent gain.

GREAT DAIRY STATE
"Wisconsin, however, is doing exceedingly well with its dairy interests. During the downward string of business which began in 1920, one of the most spectacular features was the relative strength of the dairying regions. It was shown not only statistically but by personal observation, that business in the dairying sections remained relatively good even when sales were at their worst in other agricultural territories. The reasons which the dairying regions shows to business depression is worth bearing in mind, although it may be dangerous to go entirely on precedent. It is probable that certain business men who find farming regions an unfavorable market may do relatively well by concentrating their sales efforts in the dairying localities of Wisconsin, Ohio, Illinois and Michigan."

In all of these East Central states, with the exception of Indiana, and Ohio, I find a distinct decrease in failures, running from a 40 per cent decline to around a 50 per cent decrease in Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin. Further, a diversified interest represented in this section promises to keep it in fair shape regardless of what may happen to other sections of the country. If business, for instance, slackening in 1924 it should pick up in the agricultural regions. What will be lost in one field for these states will be gained in another. In addition I feel that the manufacturing interests of the central west are in a stronger position than those of the east because they are 'protected' both from foreign and home competition by high freight rates.

WON'T REPEAL LAW
"When in Washington recently I spent considerable time studying the prospects of railroad legislation by the present congress. I am convinced of two things in this connection: First, that the Bach-Cummins act will not be repealed as the railroads need more rather than less credit at the present time. In the second place, freight rates on farm products are too high compared with manufactured goods and some readjustment will be made. With the farmers getting only pre-war prices for their products and being obliged to pay about 70 per cent higher freight rates, it is fairly certain that an adjustment is due and that freight rates on farm products probably will be lowered while the freight rates on manufactured goods will be slightly increased as far as this section of the country is concerned. Such a readjustment should help the business interests of these states in two ways. First, by saving the farmers a part of the money that would otherwise go out of the East Central states in form of higher freight rates. Secondly, by giving the manufacturers of this section even more protection than they now enjoy in the form of high freight rates on manufactured goods which effectively handicaps outside competition. Such a change in railroad tariffs will do much to build up the industrial centers of the middle west, the Mississippi valley, and the Pacific coast."

Mr. Babson also noted the fact that the six states comprising this East Central section contains the three economic centers of the United States. "The center of population," he says, "is today located in southwestern Indiana, the center of manufactures is located in western Ohio, while the center of agriculture will fall in the southern parts of Illinois."

"With general business in the United States running at about 1 per cent below normal as indicated by the index figure of the Babson chart, the six states comprising this East Central section certainly enjoy an unusual advantage."

Dr. Kinsman Discusses Socialism And Capitalism In Address At Sheboygan

That the capitalist regime is the finest expression of human relations and the only method of working out mundane destiny, was the assertion of Dr. D. O. Kinsman, professor of economics at Lawrence college, in an address before the Sheboygan Association of Commerce a few nights ago.

Dr. Kinsman also conveyed the idea that when the capitalist gives to the laborer his proper share in the fruits of his effort, when capitalists completely abolish the idea of competition, socialism as a recognized political philosophy will cease to exist.

He led up to these conclusions by a long and searching analysis of capital and socialism. For the origin of the first he went back to primeval man and declared that the instant that man began to use instruments to aid him in killing game for a livelihood, he became a capitalist. If there were no capitalists now, man would be reduced to the necessity of gaining his livelihood by the most primitive means known to history and revert to savagery.

Turning to socialism he credited Karl Marx, its founder, with being a great thinker but an occasionally fallacious thinker, as when he made the mistake of dividing labor into two classes, productive and non-productive. This classification declares all managers, clerks all in the service class, to be non-productive and therefore not entitled to share in the fruits of the efforts of the productive class.

This division raised in the minds of Marxians the question of who owns the means of production and they at once concluded that the stockholders stole it. "The bolsheviks," Russian socialists say that government is a scheme for protecting private property that is very largely stolen. They took over these private properties and attempted to run them with results that are very well known.

Dr. Kinsman explained that the scientific socialist believes in the private ownership of consumption goods and the public ownership of the means of production. Life would permit a man to own an automobile but declares that society owns the factory and machinery that produces it.

Dr. Kinsman also conveyed the idea that when the capitalist gives to the laborer his proper share in the fruits of his effort, when capitalists completely abolish the idea of competition, socialism as a recognized political philosophy will cease to exist.

Notwithstanding Prime Minister MacDonald was not specific in the program he outlined in announcing to the house of commons the policies of the new Labor government his speech nevertheless was well received. It is the function of the opposition, particularly the Conservatives who have just been ousted, to heckle and belittle Mr. MacDonald, but the criticisms offered will not be taken seriously by impartial observers.

The new prime minister has a difficult road to travel, particularly in dealing with British finance and taxation, but we believe that even here he is likely to surprise his opponents in resourcefulness and in the reasonableness of his proposals. Naturally one of the objects of his first concern is unemployment, and he will have the sympathy and should have the support of the people of Great Britain in any constructive measure he may offer for its relief. If nothing can be done immediately to increase employment, he will, of course, be justified in extending increased government assistance to temporarily care for those who are without the means of helping themselves.

In foreign affairs Mr. MacDonald is moving energetically, and along lines that merit both home and international confidence. Even his recognition of Russia is favorably received. He is determined to have peaceful understanding in Europe, and while ostensibly he has placed himself on good terms with Poincare the logical effects of his policy, if carried to a successful conclusion, will be to undermine that discredited statesman and contribute to his early overthrow.

Americans who believe in the necessity of international cooperation for the preservation of peace will rejoice at the great importance Mr. MacDonald attaches to the League of Nations. They will also echo his desire to have America take her place in its counsel and in the supreme undertaking of trying to do away with war. The new Labor premier believes that the hope of Europe and of the world lies in close Anglo-America relations.

It is a pleasure for liberal-minded Americans to see diplomats of the old school displaced in the British government by a humanitarian of the type of Mr. MacDonald, and the able cabinet with which he has surrounded himself. He has not made a single radical proposal as yet, indeed his course has been genuinely progressive. Quite regardless of how long he may be permitted to remain in power as a minority government, the change is in all respects a healthful one for Great Britain, which needs to be shaken up a bit more politically and socially in her onward, though at times retarded, march toward liberal institutions.

Her Labor government is a step of orderly development, a guarantee against revolutionary development. Out of it will come much good, for after all England and English labor with her, are conservative and in spite of the terrific strain that country is under in the form of excessive taxation and unemployment, it is probably safer from violence or turbulent upheaval than any country in Europe.

MACADOO OUT OF IT

At Mr. MacAdoo's instance, a conference of his supporters will be held in Chicago Monday to determine whether he shall retire as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for president. The conference can reach only one conclusion, if it wishes to take account of facts and has any concern for the Democratic party. Politicians sometimes have a leaning toward the ostrich habit of sticking its head in the ground in an effort not to see the surrounding landscape, and that is what they will be doing if they approve the continuance of Mr. MacAdoo in the race.

Until the oil scandal was laid bare, Mr. MacAdoo was the one outstanding hope of the Democrats. In all probability he would have been nominated, and in view of what has developed and what is to come, had he not been so unfortunate as to be in Mr. Doheny's company, he would have had a good chance of election. His capacity and his integrity are not affected by the disclosures concerning him, but his availability as a presidential candidate is. People of this country would never under present conditions give their support to a great corporation lawyer, and above all one who had been in the employment of a disreputable exploiter, if not briber, like Doheny.

It is no fault of Mr. MacAdoo that he was placed in this embarrassing position. He doubtless had no way of knowing the kind of man he was dealing with when he accepted Doheny's offer. He was innocent of questionable motives, and acted wholly within his rights when he accepted the retainer. But these matters have no pertinence now. Doheny, Sinclair and their associates stand revealed to the world as the worst lot of pirates yet caught in the act of robbing our natural storehouses and of putting the knife to conservation. If they are not criminals their purposes were criminal. They sought to buy up every man of public experience and influence in Washington they could get their hands on. Mr. MacAdoo fell into their clutches much as an innocent lamb walks into the embrace of a Wall street wolf.

No friend of Doheny or Sinclair, or anybody in their employ, could come within a thousand miles of election to the White House. The objects of their affection and generosity were not in all instances contaminated, but their names and presence are contaminating just the same. Oil will be as fatal a word in the election as would be an orange banner on St. Patrick's day. Mr. MacAdoo must gracefully retire, however unwilling his friends may be to have him do so. He is out of the race, unfortunate as that fact may be.

FACTS AND HEARSAY

Frank A. Vanderlip, in his address before the Rotary club at Ossining, New York, not only committed a grave indiscretion but did a serious wrong to the men who purchased the Marion, Ohio, Star from the late President Harding, as well as to Mr. Harding himself. When called upon to substantiate his charge before the senate investigating committee he failed entirely, and made a sorry spectacle of himself. All that he had said was "street gossip," and a man of his position and standing should have had better judgment than to give a semblance of fact to it by stating the gossip publicly.

Mr. Vanderlip should make a prompt and full apology to the men he has injured. According to the frank statement of earnings which the purchasers of the Star made, and other circumstances attending the purchase, the price paid for the property appears to have been entirely reasonable. The incident goes to show the recklessness with which charges are being made in connection with the investigation of the oil leases, and the public should accept as fact only what is testified to under oath.

TODAY'S POEM

By Berton Bralley

BON VOYAGE

I hope you have a pleasant trip,
And don't get seasick on the ship
No matter how she sways and veers;
I hope you'll write, but hear my plea:
No matter what you do or see,
DON'T bring me any souvenirs.

I'll promise that I will peruse
Your album full of kodak views
And praise whatever there appears;
I'll listen to the tales you tell,
But heed this solemn warning well:
DON'T send me any souvenirs.

Of every sort of useless stuff
Already I have quite enough.
I've carted them about for years;
So travel anywhere you will,
But if you'd keep my friendship still,
DON'T bring me any souvenirs.

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writer's names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individuals cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

INSULIN NOT A DIABETES CURE

No new cure for diabetes has been found, but the new remedy, insulin, is keeping many subjects of this disease comparatively strong and well, so it is fair to say that the new remedy helps to cure the patient even though it does not cure the disease. Diabetes is a disease of nutrition. One subject to diabetes cannot utilize sufficient carbohydrates (starches and sugars) to meet the demands of the body for this class of food materials. This functional deficiency is due to some inherent shortcoming in the islands of Langerhans, which are certain groups of cells in the pancreas (abdominal sweet bread) and take their name from the German scientist who discovered them in 1869. The new remedy, insulin, is an extract of the pancreas from animals killed in the abattoir. It supplies the internal secretion which these islands of Langerhans produce in insufficient quantity, in the diabetic individual, to insure the normal oxidation and utilization as fuel or food of carbohydrates. When administered to a diabetic individual insulin diminishes the amount of sugar in the blood.

All carbohydrate food material is converted to glucose by digestion and as glucose (blood sugar) it is distributed for the nutrition of the body. A certain proportion of sugar is normally present in the blood, about one-tenth of 1 per cent. In diabetes the amount found in the blood is considerably greater, perhaps half of 1 per cent. A dose of insulin (which must be given by hypodermic injection into the muscle tissues) causes the blood sugar to drop toward normal, or even below normal if the dose is too large. If the blood sugar falls below the normal amount, a characteristic condition appears, the principal features of which are weakness, great hunger, sweating, tremor or even convulsions and loss of consciousness. The juice of an orange or a few teaspoonsful of glucose will quickly overcome this condition.

Nothing is gained by the use of insulin in diabetes unless the patient's diet is scientifically adjusted and the proper amount of food, both carbohydrates and other materials, given shortly after each dose of the insulin, for the purpose of insulin is to enable the patient to utilize a greater amount of carbohydrates and thus gain strength. To use insulin without this dietary adjustment is a waste of time and money and a rather dangerous practice for the patient.

Diabetes, as everybody knows, is too often a fatal disease, yet it is well to remember that it is at the same time a functional trouble—a lot of ill informed people still like to imagine that any trouble which is "functional" rather than "organic" is unimportant. There is really no sense, either common or scientific sense, in this. In diabetes the functional trouble is "functional" diseases. All disease is functional all the time and organic from the time the doctor tells you frankly what ails you.

Insulin treatment can be given by any good doctor anywhere. The medicine is on the open market, but only for the use of physicians.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

The Common Bath Tub
Is there any danger of contracting syphilis by bathing in the tub used by persons who have the disease? Would a disinfectant be advisable in such a case? If so, what?—H. S.

Answer—So far as I know there is no evidence that any disease is ever contracted from using the tub. There could be no more efficient disinfection for a bath tub than a good soap and water scrubbing. A shower bath is the thing.

F. H. Sees The Light

My husband is trying to reduce and wants to know what to eat that is not fattening.—Mrs. S. A. O.

Answer—Friend husband had better take a short cut through the woods, if he is serious about reducing and not follow this aimless path which so many thousands of the more credulous sex have followed in the vain attempt to reduce. In some cases restriction in the amount of sugar gives the quickest results. In others, restriction in the total of cereal or starchy foods—but in all cases it is a clear proposition of eating less and exercising more. (Copyright, National Newspaper Service.)

LOOKING BACKWARD

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Saturday, February 18, 1899

Senator A. B. Whitman and Assemblyman T. A. Willy were home from Madison.

Miss Martha Mauser was the guest of Miss Arkie Parish at Kaukauna.

Chief E. L. Anderson of the fire department was laid up with the grip.

Barney Endler's saloon and hall at Appleton Creek was destroyed by fire.

W. J. Ustin of Chicago was in Appleton on a several days business trip.

The Cho club was to meet Monday evening with Mrs. W. D. Whorton.

Henry Silverfriend of Chicago called on Appleton relatives.

Kamps & Sacksteder received a new set of weather flags which were to be displayed daily in the future.

Farmers were taking advantage of the sleighing by hauling large quantities of pulpwood and cordwood to the city.

The Kaukauna Times said C. W. Cole, government foreman of Appleton was in the city accompanied by machinists and mechanics estimating the repairs to be made to the government boats and dredges lying in the third lock in that city.

Father Augustus of St. Joseph church was to celebrate the following Monday the twenty-fifth anniversary of his priesthood, twelve years of which he spent in Appleton.

TEN YEARS AGO

Saturday, February 14, 1914

Emma Pettack of Appleton and Carl J. Mack of Oshkosh were married.

Milo R. Buchstaf of Oshkosh was in Appleton on business.

John Brill of Menominee Falls was visiting his aunt, Mrs. Ferdinand Stall.

St. Aloysius Young Men's society issued invitations for a dancing party at St. Joseph hall.

Fred Peterson, Jr., returned from Mobile, Ala., for a visit with his parents.

Applications for a marriage license was made to the county clerk by John A. Schmidt of Withee, Clark-co, and Miss Mary Timmers of Kaukauna.

John Spalght, 83, one of the oldest residents of the city died Saturday morning.

Sixteen years ago the day following the Maine was blown up in Havana harbor.

An envelope containing $40 in bills lay between the rails of the Interurban line in front of the post-office for two hours the day previous before it was picked up.

Charles Fransway, 46, well known in Appleton, died Friday at his home in Shawano.

Bids for the new Y. M. C. A. building were to be called for on March 10.

Fred M. Wilcox, formerly of Appleton, a member of the Wisconsin industrial commission, was in Milwaukee endeavoring to effect a settlement of the Weinbrenner, Harsh & Edmonds and Weyenberg Shoe Company's strikes.

"I never heard of the $2 bill superstition until there was this late talk about withdrawing it from circulation," wheezed Bill the Collector. "It's odd, too, because I observe all the proper and orthodox superstitions. I pound wood, cross my fingers, carry a rabbit's foot, say 'broad and butter' I kiddy-corner the street, refuse to walk under ladders or look at the moon over my left shoulder, and I kiss my thumb when I stub my toe. But I have no fear of a $2 bill."

Fun at the Postoffice

After sorting out several tons of St. Valentine's day mail at the postoffice clerks must have thought that the Soulding Locks Hairpin company is the most wooed woman in town. Now if those 25,000 daily requests for samples were only fat orders, how happy Miss Golden Locks would be!

ABOUT THEM SKYLIGHTS

Here is what one of our school boys 12 years old thinks of the street lights here:

"I do not think the street lights in our city are very good. Tall posts which are so big they can hardly stand and a small light on the top, which is bad, because they are open on the top so that smoke, dirt and bugs can get in them and shut off the little light there is. The lights were very expensive. The people of Appleton should have gotten some large lights that were a little nearer to the ground. They could sell the lights to some city that does not know how poor they are."

WHAT IS GOING ON IN THE WORLD

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

Congress is having a regular orgy of investigations.

It's a presidential year—each side hopes, by investigating the other, to improve its own campaign chances. The investigations hit the Republicans hardest, because, being in power, they have most to lose.

All the Democrats risk is damage to their plans for getting back into power.

The Progressive bloc, as the balance-of-power group, hopes to profit, whoever else suffers.

Not but what the investigations are a good thing anyway. When politicians fall out—well, there's an old saying fits the situation.

OIL THE BIG THING

The oil inquiry is the BIG investigation.

W. G. McAdoo says dragging his name into it has done him a great injustice. He declares any Doheny money his firm accepted was for honest law work.

People who know much about the case, believe this.

But will that save McAdoo's presidential hopes? Echo answers very skeptically.

DENBY STANDS PAT

No politician thinks President Coolidge will demand Secretary of the Navy Denby's resignation. It would be too much of a confession of weakness. And Denby has said already he won't resign voluntarily. Nor is impeachment likely—he's accused of nothing worse than carelessness. But despite denials, Denby's resignation is expected.

OTHER INQUIRIES

Another oil inquiry has been ordered. It relates to oil prices. Why are they so high? Also gasoline?

Then there's the Liberty Bond inquiry. The story is that a lot of these bonds were issued in duplicate. That is, every time a bond was printed, it was charged another one just like it was run off. The government got the money for the first one, but the suspicion is that somebody else pocketed the price of the second. They can't be told apart, so now it's up to the government to redeem both of them.

The Shipping Board, too, is due to be investigated. And there are half a dozen others.

GERMANY'S AMBASSADOR

It's reported German Ambassador Wiedfeldt is going to resign. It wasn't his fault he didn't half-mast his flag when Woodrow Wilson died. He was obeying orders. They say he wants to go back to work for the Krupps anyway—he can make more money.

REBELS BEATEN

When General De la Huerta, Mexican rebel leader, skipped from Vera Cruz, he said he was just moving to his headquarters. Most people think he left because he had to—that President Obregon has the rebels about beaten.

NOT SO CRAZY

Ramsay MacDonald, England's Labor premier, is asking King George to "create" some new "lords." Some people say this is because Labor is as crazy about titles as anybody. It isn't that at all. Suppose, in this country, the Republicans could get

Mummies Not Only In Egypt

Mummification is undoubtedly one of the chief features of the later Egyptian culture-complex, but this hardly warrants the assumption that the bodies found in the Kentucky caves were those of Egyptians or Africans.

The argument advanced in support of this hypothesis is faulty. The quite common people of the Nile valley have left no monuments behind them; whether their dead were preserved or not is an open question. The kings and priests alone have left memorials and each individual pharaoh has his own tomb upon which he lavished tender care during his lifetime.

Niche burial is not an outstanding feature of the Egyptian method of disposal of the dead. It still finds favor among certain tribes of Australia and the ascetic castes of India, to mention but two out of many instances.

Mummification was practiced until recent times by the Torres Islanders, just north of Cape York, Australia. Specimens are preserved in the Sydney museum. The Khass chiefs of Assam are embalmed; in Ceylon this practice endured until the 18th Century; it is common in Burma; well preserved mummies have been found in the Canary Islands; the Incas were acquainted with the custom.

A vast body of well-authenticated evidence is growing up which tends to show that a race of voyagers traveled far and wide from the ports of the Red Sea and the Persian Gulf about 200 B. C. in search of precious metals and stones. They must have traveled in small bands and few women went with them, if any. Wherever they settled they intermarried with the indigenous population. Their descendants, knowing nothing of Egypt, having few of the physical characteristics of its people, nevertheless acquired their forbears' migratory tendency and seem to have reached South America

65 Attend Banquet By U.W. Grads

State Geologist Is Chief Speaker At Anniversary Meeting Here

About 65 members of the Wisconsin Alumni association attended the banquet Friday night given in Hotel Appleton by the association to celebrate Founder's day, which is the seventy-fifth anniversary of the University of Wisconsin.

The speaker was W. O. Hotchkiss, a state geologist and chairman of the Wisconsin Highway commission. He told of conditions at the university, of the athletic side and spoke upon the moral life at the institution. He emphasized the responsibilities of graduates of the university toward the community in which they live. The speaker was introduced by Joseph Kofford.

At a short business meeting held before the banquet it was decided to entertain the Harefoot Dramatic club of the University of Wisconsin when they appear here on April 8. It is very probable that the association will give a dance for the club.

Mrs. M. T. Ray was chairman of the banquet committee and was assisted by Van Finkerton, Mrs. Paul and Don Dickinson, president association.

PARTIES

More than 100 couples attended the masquerade party given by the Women of Mooseheart legion for members, the Loyal Order of Moose and friends of both organizations in Moose temple Friday night. Prizes were awarded to groups of the best costumed people and to two couples. The first groups included Mrs. Fred Kostitzke, Mrs. James Richmond, Mrs. B. R. Goch-nauer and Mrs. Harry Kahler. The group of men included Charles Her-rick, Ollie Arndt, Arnold Schultz and Jacob Kromer. Two prizes were awarded to Mrs. Pauline Luebben and Louis Sager and to Mrs. Arthur Vogel and Harry Herzog.

The Evangelical league of Chris-tian Endeavor will have a sleighride party on Monday evening. Two groups will go to the Elckmann farm, the one leaving from the home of the Rev. H. A. Bernhardt, 696 Harris-st., and the other from the home of Otto Polzin, at the corner of Oneida-st and Second-ave.

A wedding dinner was served at the Conway hotel Friday evening for Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Nelson of Milwau-kee, who were married Friday noon in Menominee, Mich. Mrs. Nelson formerly was Mrs. Frances Teasdale of Milwaukee and a former resident of Appleton. The wedding party with the attendants, Mrs. H. C. Schneider and Bert Nelson, are the guests of Mrs. Thomas Hughes, 1111 Morrison-st, a sister of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Nelson will spend three weeks at Palm Beach, Fla., after which they will make their home at Milwaukee.

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

Mrs. Shaw Calls Lydia E. Pink-ham's Vegetable Compound a God-Send to Sick Women

Cambridge, Me.—"I suffered ter-ribly with pains and soreness in my sides. Each month I had to go to bed, and the doctor told me I simply had to go under an operation, before I could get help. I saw your adver-tisement in the paper, and I told my husband one day to get me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vege-table Compound. Before I took the third dose I felt better. I took it four times a day for two years, getting better all the time, and now for four years I don't have any pains. After taking the medicine for two years I had another child—a lovely baby girl now four years old—the life of our home. I do praise this medicine. It is a Godsend to women who suffer with female troubles and especially for pains at the periods. I surely was very bad once, and I know that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved me from an operation."—Mrs. JOSIE M. SHAW, Route No. 1, Cam-bridge, Maine.

A country-wide canvass of purchas-ers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound reports 98 out of every 100 were benefited by it.

Hall Prettily Decorated For Girls' Party

Hearts decorated Elk hall on Fri-day evening when sports council of Appleton Womens club gave the sec-ond of its series of invitation dances. Only 80 couples were present and this made dancing more comfortable than when the hall is filled to capacity. Serpentine was used as a feature of the evening. The girls at the party were given little heart favors. Music was furnished by the Mellorimba so-ciet orchestra.

This is the regular meeting time of the league but no meetings have tak-en place for several weeks.

The regular meeting of St. Aloysius Young Men's society will take place at 7:30 Tuesday evening. Routine business will be transacted.

A business meeting of Columbian club will take place at Columbia hall at 1:30 Sunday afternoon. Plans for a party for the club will be made.

The Third Order of St. Francis of the St. Joseph church will approach communion at the 8 o'clock service Sunday morning. The members will go to the church in a body.

How It Is Built, Is the Thing to Build On!

WHY put up with make-shifts, when masterpieces cost but little more?

Why buy furniture that merely looks good, when it is easy to own the kind that really is good?

Why pay money for mere wood and varnish when you can have genuine quality that goes through and through?

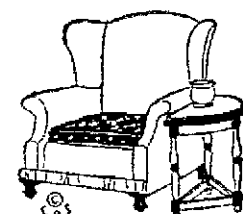

Why be satisfied with any-thing less than the sound, sin-cere craftsmanship that as-sures a ripe old age to anypiece of furniture you buy here?

Why, indeed? The only way to build satisfaction through the year is to build your in-vestment on furniture that is built RIGHT!

GAS, FLOWING FROM WELL HERE, BURNS FOR NEARLY AN HOUR

Interesting Phenomenon Is Located On Farm North Of Second-ave

A natural gas well which threw stones and gravel 50 feet into the air and which burned 45 minutes before the flame could be smothered, was brought in at the home of Charles Cook, who lives about six blocks north of Second-ave, just west of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad tracks, by Edwin Buss, who is drilling a well. The gas was struck at a distance of 64 feet.

The first blast came Wednesday morning when the well driller penetrated into a gravel pocket. The rush of gas blew gravel and stones as large as eggs, far into the air. The gas suddenly was ignited and threw a flame as high as the well drilling derrick. Help was obtained before the fire could be smothered. The gas flow stopped after a time but another blast greeted the drillers Thursday morning, showering the surrounding land with gravel and stone. The blast lasted only a few minutes, however.

Dr. R. M. Bagg, of the geological department at Lawrence college, has explained that the pocket of gas is so small that it has no commercial value. Similar pockets can be found in many places and one of the largest was noted at Forest Junction. There is a well at Kimberly, Mr. Bagg says, where gas can be heard at any time.

The gas is formed by the decomposition of organic matter and other debris embedded in the solid clay soil during the glacial period. The gravel pocket, into which the well driller penetrated, is porous and it serves as a reservoir for the gas which seeped in through the surrounding clay. When the hole was drilled into it, the gas escaped. Small quantities of gas always are seeping into this gravel pocket but it is not probable it will affect the water in the well in the least.

The gravel pocket rests on top of limestone and as soon as this strata is reached water will be found, according to Dr. Bagg. The driller now is down about 80 feet and it is possible he will obtain water up from ten to twenty-five feet deeper.

ON THE SCREEN

REAL BILL HART RED-BLOODED HERO IS IN CHAPS AGAIN

The real Bill Hart—hero of every small boy from Maine to California and from Canada to the Gulf—beloved of all who care for red-blooded action on the screen—will be seen in the Artcraft picture "Blue Blazes Rawden" which will be shown at the New Bijou theatre, next Sunday.

In several of his recent films, Mr. Hart has donned chaps and sixshooters appearing as a convict in one, and in another leaving the western plains for the asphalt of the city streets. But now he's back in harness, astride a trusty horse and with his wide-brimmed Stetson atop his head. He rides through a picture that is full to the brim of action, excitement and heroic deeds. These are lively scraps, quick shooting, all the characteristic incidents of life as it was lived in the yesterday of the Southwest.

ELINOR GLYN'S 6 DAYS AT ELITE

A colorful and highly picturesque original screen story has been told by Elinor Glyn, the famous English writer, in "Six Days," which will be the attraction for 3 days at the Elite theatre, beginning Monday. "Six Days" was produced for Goldwyn Pictures Corporation by Charles Ebbelin, one of the most highly esteemed directors in the industry. In her new story the famous author of "Three Weeks" has developed a story that is rapid and absorbing in action, with characters that appeal to the sympathies and with thrills and romance that lend themselves to the picture form of presentation.

Guida Bregere made the adaptation and the photoplay was in the skillful hands of John Mescall. The settings were by Cedric Gibbons, the Goldwyn art director. The cast contains many well-known names. Corinne Griffith, a star in her own right, is featured as Lulline Kingston, and Frank Mayo, who has been a star for a number of years, is co-featured as Dion Leslie. Others in the cast are Myrtle Stedman, Claude King, Maude George, Spottiswoode Aitken, Charles Chary, Evelyn Walsh Hall and others.

MIX SCORES AGAIN IN COMEDY PICTURE

Tom Mix scored another motion picture comedy success. It is called "Ladies to Board" at the Elite where it is booked for Sunday, one day only. Jack Blystone, who directed Mix in "Soft Boiled," his most recent example of screen humor, adds another feather in his cap in this production. It is funny, virile and full of Mixian action and proved to be a type of picture admirably adapted to Mix's work. William Dudley Pelley, who wrote

C. OF C. WILL PREPARE FILE OF MANUFACTURES

Appleton Chamber of Commerce soon will begin compiling a much needed source of reference, a list of all manufacturing plants in Appleton and all the products they manufacture. This data will be filed for local use and for reference when answering inquiries concerning commodities sought here.

Much of this information will be taken from lists submitted in the context of the United Commercial Travelers recently, in which various products made in the county are listed. Manufacturers are invited to submit lists for this file if they wish.

"Ladies to Board" has furnished a genuinely funny situation. Mix inherits an old ladies' home and his efforts to conduct it get himself and the wee Holmes into all manner of laugh provoking complications. Tony, the wonder horse, is at Tom's disposal and he makes the best of his superb horsemanship. He furnished some additional thrills by climbing perilously around the structural work of a half completed sky scraper.

Gertrude Olmsted as the girl is winsome and displays a rare dramatic ability. Others in the cast are Phil McCullough, Gertrude Claire, Fay Holderness and Dolores Rousseau.

"THE STEEL TRAIL"

In "The Steel Trail," a chapter play produced by Universal at the New Bijou Sunday, Duncan plays a railroad construction engineer. The story is a big narrative of railway building, with countless thrills, land slides, daring escapes from automobile wrecks, a speeding freight car, and dynamite blasts—all bound together in a logical plot through which runs a pretty romance. It is staged in a manner almost spectacular. A large cast of standard players appear with Duncan and Miss Johnson in the new picture.

$1,925 IS TOTAL FOR GERMAN RELIEF

Committee Finds About $2,500 Also Sent Direct To Needy Germans

Outagamie county's campaign for the German children relief fund netted $1,925.25 paid direct to the committee through efforts of various banks, according to the report prepared by Hugh G. Corbett, secretary, and John L. Hestinger, treasurer of the committee. This amount has been remitted to Judge A. C. Backus, state chairman, Milwaukee.

With contributions going through church or other organization channels, or direct to relatives in Germany, it has been impossible for the committee to estimate the exact amount given here. It is believed, however, that at least $2,500 was sent in addition to the above of $1,925.25. The campaign is officially at an end in the county and all banks have made their final accounting and turned in their receipt books.

Amounts received by the banks were: Appleton State bank, $618.75; First National, Appleton, $444.50; Citizens National, Appleton, $153.80; Outagamie County bank, Appleton, $118.45;

Kimberly State bank, $26.00; Bank of Little Chute, $51.00; Bank of Kaukauna, $35.00; Farmers & Merchants, Kaukauna, $37.00; First National, Kaukauna, $9.00; First National, Seymour, $60.00; Seymour State bank, $3.00; Bank of Black Creek, $208.25; Bank of Nichols, $1.00; Citizens State bank, Bear Creek $3.00; Bank of Shiocton, $24.00.

CLINTONVILLE ASKS FOR NEW SCHEDULE

Clintonville officials are not satisfied with the proposed schedule for an additional train on the Appleton Junction and Eland line of the Chicago and Northwestern railway, but propose a different schedule.

After the railway company removed two trains from this line and after a public hearing before the railroad commission, the railway company was asked to file new schedule. It proposed to add a train arriving at Appleton Junction from Eland at 8 o'clock in the evening and another returning at 8:30 in the same evening. But the Clintonville Chamber of Commerce now asks that a south-bound train passing through the city six hours earlier than the one proposed and a northbound train passing through there two and a half hours earlier be added in place of those proposed.

The Clintonville officials have notified the railroad commission of their preference in the matter and the commission has promised to withhold approval of the schedule until the officials have had time to take the matter up with the railway company.

OSHKOSH PASTOR WILL PREACH AT ZION SERVICE

The Rev. C. Edward Kuhlmann of Oshkosh will preach the English service at the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Ladies Society of Zion Lutheran church at 2:30 Sunday afternoon. The Rev. Theodore Marth, pastor of the church, will preach in German. The mixed choir has been working on special numbers for the celebration, and an anthem, "Praise Be the Lord," has been prepared. The church services will be followed by a supper and social in the Zion school hall. A play, "My Auntie From California," is to be presented by seven girls. An orphan has been engaged and other social features are being worked out by the committee in charge.

Are Interested in Improving Your Own Financial Condition

Every one's interests are well served and his financial condition given a chance to better itself as the city in which he lives grows, through expansion of established enterprise and the establishment of new, successful business. The manufacture of steel seamless tubing is a substantial business to get into and savors of the possibilities of growing into large permanent enterprise.

This venture is one of merit—that will benefit every business man—butter, baker, druggist, jeweler, haberdashery, department store, shoe store, printer, coal men, ice men, etc., etc., and the and therefore deserves the support of everyone.

Either That Or

the venture is not meritorious as above represented and should not be permitted to establish itself here at all.

Either One Thing Or The Other

There should be no half-way measures about that. That is sound logic — we feel sure.

As we foster and help establish a good, substantial, permanent enterprise in this — our city — which will benefit every one — then surely we are justified in asking the moral support — the favorable comment — the best wishes of every person living in this community.

Every possible bit of information desired about this enterprise is available to any one who wishes to give consideration to becoming financially interested.

First Mortgage BONDS

During the past month, we have been selling an issue of $350,000. of 7% Serial First Mortgage Bonds of the Streator Clay Manufacturing Company.

Some of these bonds come due every year from January 1, 1925 to January 1, 1939. They are secured by a mortgage on property appraised at over four times the amount of the mortgage. The Company is controlled by Robert H. Green, James A. Green and Charles A. Green, all men well-known in Appleton.

The bonds are additionally secured by the individual and collective guarantee of these three men whose net worth, we are informed, is in excess of the amount of this bond issue, not counting their interests in the Streator Clay Manufacturing Co.

This is an old company, established in 1892 and is still under the same management which has successfully developed it since that time. It manufactures paving brick, sewer pipe, vitrified tile, etc. We regard these bonds as exceptionally well-secured and a sound investment.

The issue is practically sold out with the exception of a few $1000 bonds due in 1926, and some $100 bonds due in 1929, 1934 and 1937, which we are offering at Par and Accrued Interest to Yield 7%.

The bonds are non-callable for ten years, and the interest is payable January 1st and July 1st at the office of the First Trust Company of Appleton, who are also trustees under the mortgage. The balance of the issue will undoubtedly be sold out within a week, and if you are interested, we suggest that you act promptly.

Full descriptive circular on request.

SEAL SALE NETTED $550, REPORT SHOWS

Kaukauna—The final and complete report of the health committee of Kaukauna Woman's club shows that a total of $550.36 was raised in the Christmas drive for the sale of anti-tuberculosis seals. Half of that amount has been retained by the woman's club while the other half has been sent to headquarters in Milwaukee. Expenses of conducting the annual sale, including stamps, stationery and envelopes, amounted to $17.89 which must be paid from the club's share of the fund.

Mrs. W. F. Hohmann is chairman of the health committee which annually undertakes the work but being unable to personally supervise the work she appointed Mrs. H. T. Runtz to act in her stead. Efforts of Mrs. Runtz and Mrs. Gordon Mulholland member of the committee, had much to do with the success of this year's sale.

Besides the contributions from the city schools the only other source of income was through the mails. The schools raised $65.31 divided as follows: St. Mary's school, $25; Nicolet, $39; Trinity Lutheran, $5; Park, $6.34; Vocational, $3.75; junior high school, $6.60; Holy Cross, $12.23. The sale in 1922 netted about $530 and was conducted in the same manner as last year's event.

Winter Find You Tired and Achy? Do You Suffer Constant Backache—Feel Old and Worn Out? Then Follow The Advice Of These Appleton Folks!

DO YOU get up these winter mornings feeling tired, weak — achy all over? Are you so lame, stiff and miserable it seems you can never get back in trim? Does your back ache with a dull, constant throb? Sharp, rheumatic pains torture you at every step? Then you should be giving some attention to your kidneys!

Winter, you know, is danger time for the kidneys. That's because exposure to colds and chills wears down body resistance and throws an unusually heavy strain on the hard-working kidneys. The kidneys are apt to fall behind in keeping the blood-stream pure, and poisons accumulate that well kidneys would have filtered off.

Racking backaches come with stabbing pains; muscles and joints ache constantly; there are headaches, too, with dizziness and distressing kidney irregularities. Nerves are "jumpy"; one feels old—all worn out.

Give your weakened kidneys the help they need. Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. Doan's have helped thousands. They are recommended by many Appleton people. Ask your neighbor!

"Use Doan's" Say These Appleton People:

T. W. BATLEY, 848 Richmond St., says: "Every time I got a cold it seemed to settle on my kidneys and cause me pain in the small of my back. Some days the pain was so bad I could hardly get up to walk around. My kidneys acted poorly and the secretions were highly colored and contained sediment. I started taking Doan's Pills for this trouble and three boxes cured me of the attack."

MRS. LOUIS KARLS, 1287 Spencer-St., "I had a dull nagging ache in the small of my back and at night I could hardly rest. My kidneys were out of order and didn't act right at all. I started taking Doan's Pills that I bought at Walker's Drug Store and my kidneys acted regularly and my back did not bother me."

STEPHENSVILLE SCHOOL WAS CLOSED FOR WEEK

Stephensville—Peoples school has been closed all week on account of the death of Bernard Wall, father of the teacher.

John Casey, Peter Evers, Hugo Schuldes and Henry and Louis Morack made a business trip to Hortonville Monday.

J. Lempeke and Paul W. Beyer were at Appleton Tuesday on business.

Mrs. Peter Evers and son Jack left Monday morning for a month's visit at Appleton and Little Chute.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schroth spent Monday at New London.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Steidl and Mrs. Edward Manz autoed to New London on Tuesday.

Miss Lorena Manley of Evanston, Ill., spent several days at her home here.

Mrs. George Ross returned home from Polar last week, where she spent ten days visiting her aged mother.

Fred Barnum has a crew of five men helping him cut wood.

Henry Breitrick and John Canavan have spent three days shovelling out drifted portions of the roads passing their farms. It was necessary for teams to detour through fields in the meantime.

CUTICURA HEALS LARGE PIMPLES

On Face, Festered and Burned and Itched. Lost Sleep. Hated To Go Out.

"My face broke out with red, rough blotches and then pimples. The pimples were hard, large and red, and were scattered. They festered and burned and itched so that I could not sleep at night. My face was such a sight that I hated to go out. The trouble lasted for over two years."

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and after using four cakes of Cuticura Soap and four boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Hazel Lewis, 1702 Jones St., St. Joseph, Mo.

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESQUIT TO SYDNEY CARTON, CONTINUED

My knees trembled beneath me, Syd, as I tried to open the door to Leslie. At that moment the baby was awakened in the room beyond and began to cry.

"With a muttered curse I opened the door and looked into the white face of my wife. 'Did you get it, did you get it?'" I asked.

She did not answer but pushed me aside and went through into the inner room. I followed quickly and found her kneeling at the crib.

"Leave that brat alone. The nurse will be in here directly."

Until that moment I had forgotten that old Nannie had been called to the sick bed of her daughter and had left Junior with me the night before. The baby had not had any food during the night. He had evidently kicked the clothes off for the little body was blue and shivering with cold. He was alternately crying and choking with a sudden rasping cough.

I knelt beside Leslie. Honestly, Syd, I was ashamed and I tried to tell Leslie so, but she would have nothing to do with me.

"Go away," she said. "You're not only sent me out to do your contemptible bidding, but you probably allowed this innocent child almost to die while I am gone."

"When I return you have nothing to say but, 'Let that brat alone. You call this baby 'brat' when only a few months after you declared to me that you thought of him exactly as though he were your own child.'"

"Can't you understand, Leslie?" I pleaded, "that it is because I think of little Jack as my own child that I speak so of him?"

"Where is Nannie," she asked, and then I had to tell her that it was through my neglect that the baby was in such a condition.

"Draw me some hot water immediately," was her only comment. "The child has a chill!"

I hastened to comply, but I could not resist the question, "Did you get the money?"

Leslie seemed to look straight through me as though I were not there. She was undressing the baby and when she had finished, walking directly toward me in a way that made me feel had I not stepped aside she would have stepped upon me, she went into the bath and lowered the cold little form into the warm water.

For hours afterward she completely ignored me, ministering to the baby, telephoning for the doctor and giving directions to Nannie when she returned.

Adventures Of The Twins

The Christmas-Tree House. Away went the Twins on Daddy Gander's magic dustpan to Daddy Gander Land.

They could see it long before they arrived with its funny, lovely houses, and its dear, queer streets, and its odd, delightful lanes.

There was the house that Jack built, and the school house of the Ten-O'clock-School, and everything.

Suddenly Daddy Gander shaded his eyes from the sun and a worried look gathered upon his usually good-natured brow. "Yes, sir! That's it, as sure as you're alive," he declared.

"And he promised me he wouldn't. What would I do if Mother Goose were to get back before me?"

"Whatever in the world are you talking about?" asked Nick. "Is it a secret?"

"No," answered Daddy Gander. "Look and see for yourselves. Secret. I should say not! It's the mill, Poppleton Bun, the miller, promised me that he wouldn't grind so much as a mustard seed, while I was away and he's broken his promise. There will be chaff and flour dust over everything in the place and Mother Goose will be terribly nervous. She just finished sweeping up the whole place before she went away, and her last words were, 'Now, Daddy Gander, I'm leaving everything in your charge. I want you to keep everything as spick and span as you know how. And don't let that fat miller man run his mill, and don't let the sandman spill any of his mussy sand!'"

"Well, you can't help it, can you?" said Nancy.

"Yes, at least I could have, but it's too late now," sighed Daddy Gander. "I should have stayed at home and looked after things, but I have the worst memory! I forgot!"

At that minute they arrived. The magic dustpan stopped, and they were just about to jump off when Daddy Gander happened to look over the edge. "Mercy me on us. Why we're on top of the church steeple!" he cried. "A single step would kill us! Duster," he scolded, "what's getting to be the matter with you? It's had enough for me to be getting absent-minded, without you. Now take us out of here and put us down in front of the Christmas-Tree House that I fixed up for the Twins to live in. You know where it is! Next door to Bo Peep's and right across the street from Misses Spratt's. A Christmas-Tree House is a house, you

ONE COW TO PRIZE HERD

Columbia, Mo.—When he was a freshman in the University of Missouri, in 1923, Glen G. Davis bought a cow and started peddling milk to pay his school expenses.

The milk route paid dividends, and in a few months he bought another cow. Within a year the business had grown to the point where he had to hire a man to help him.

Within three years Davis' milk business had grown to the point where it demanded his entire attention and he avowed to the realization that he had something worth while.

Today Davis has a show herd of pure-bred Holstein cows that are the pride of the state. He has sold one champion milkster for $3000. His herd, in Missouri Valley stock shows, has won 1 silver loving cup, 44 champions and special awards, 100 first prizes, 78 second prizes and 49 third prizes.

CARROLL QUINTET HUMBLES LA WRENCE, 23 TO 18

Waukesha Collegians Come From Behind As Blue Defense Wavers

Zussman, Ashman And Heideman Star For Lawrentions; Sterr And Dugan Shine On Invaders' Five

Carroll college Friday night took revenge on Lawrence for its defeat at Waukesha by humbling the Blue and White quintet, 23 to 18 in a fast game played on the Armory G floor here. The Lawrentions got away to a good start and ended the first half in the lead, 10 to 7, but the invaders disrupted the Lawrence defense late in the second period with five minutes to go had a margin of seven points in their favor. Ashman caged the ball for a freethrow and a fieldgoal during the final minutes and made it 23 to 18. Zussman, Heideman and Ashman played wonderful basketball, but several of the other regulars appeared to go stale after Carroll staged its comeback, and seemed unable to get back into the fight. Dugan, center, in the fight. Dugan, center, in the fight. Dugan, center, in the fight.

Zussman opened the attack with a goal from under the basket directly after the start of the game after the Lawrentions had brought the ball down the floor by a brilliant passing throw on Zussman's foot. Dugan dropped the ball through the hoop and Sterr followed with another basket, but missed a chance for two more points when his freethrows on Zussman's second personal foul went wide of the ring. Heideman then was sent in to relieve Hubert at forward, and immediately justified the change by shooting a basket from the extreme side of the court, tying the score, 4 to 4. Todd, guard, added a point to the Carroll tally with a freethrow, but Kotal brought the brilliant fieldgoal, and Zussman's freethrow made it 5 to 5 in favor of Lawrence. Another freethrow and a basket by Zussman at the end of the half brought the Blues' tally to 10, but Dugan cut the margin when he caged a long one just before the whistle blew.

The Carolinites were puzzled by the five-man defense wavered by Lawrence, and most of the shots made by them were long ones. Zussman again started scoring in the second half when he dropped two free throws through the hoop on Todd's personal foul. The invaders began to climb to the level of the Blues when Sterr and Dugan tied the score 12 to 12 when he made a freethrow on Kotal's foul.

BLUES INCREASE LEAD Carroll tightened its defense after this and centered most of its efforts on keeping the flashy Lawrence forwards away from the basket. Lawrence missed one freethrow and made the second when he was fouled by Todd, and Kotal followed with a shot from the middle of the floor which never even touched the ring. Dugan tried one of the same kind which bounced in after bouncing on the hoop for several seconds, but Lawrence increased its lead again when Morrison added a point with a freethrow.

GAME TURNS The Lawrentions made a desperate attempt to regain their former lead and Ashman succeeded in adding three points to their tally before the final whistle blew. But the stalling tactics of the Carroll men, who stood in their own territory holding the ball whenever they got it prevented the Blues from getting more chances, and gave the Carolinites the game, 23 to 18.

The lineup: Carroll—Sterr, RF; Rueli, LF; Dugan, C; S. Todd, RG; Schulze, LG. Lawrence—Zussman, RF; Hubert, LF; Morrison, C; Kotal, RG; Chris Tope, LG.

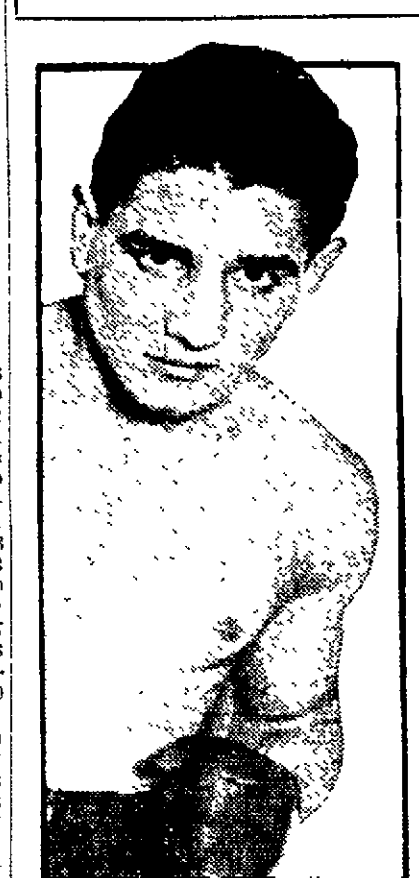

Substitutions—Heideman for Hubert; Ashman for Morrison. Referee, Berg, Wisconsin. Timekeeper, Donald Bushey, Appleton.

GREENS DEFEAT WHITES Two pickup teams clashed in the curtain raiser in which the Greens beat the Whites, 15 to 10. The first half ended with the Greens in the lead, 7 to 4, after Davley and Nesbitt of the Whites had started with a basket apiece before the Greens got started.

The second became a comedy of errors. The players of both teams tumbled about the floor more like football players than stars, and for a time the Greens threatened to swamp their rivals. The Whites staged a comeback into in the second half after the Greens had made it 14 to 5, and raised their tally to 10 while the Greens were making one more point.

The lineup: Greens—Clark, RF; Feldhauser, LF; Flatland, C; Kohler, RG; Monstead, LG. Whites—Nesbitt, RF; Medway, LF; Dawley, C; Banks, RG; Counsel, LG.

Mark For Villa

GEORGE MARKS The dear old New York 'boobies' was given the works again the other night. George Marks, a Brooklyn boy with somewhat of a reputation as a four-round performer in California rings, was sent against Pancho Villa, fly-weight champion of the world. Marks wasn't even a flyweight. He proved to be a very heavy bantamweight and a very bad one, too. Villa punched him dizzily throughout the 15 rounds of the fight—a fight that helped the slings sport in New York in about the same manner that lathi gas strengthens a condemned man's vitality.

WISCONSIN LOSES TRIO OF ACES ON GRID AND TRACKS

Marty Below, Tom Nichols And Johnny Bennet Graduate At End Of Semester

Special to Post-Crescent Madison—The University of Wisconsin lost three of her star athletes by graduation at the end of the first semester and the places of all will be hard to fill. Probably the best known of the trio is Marty Below, captain of the 1933 football team and chosen by practically all critics for All-Conference. All Western and All-American tackle. Below had another year of conference competition but completed his scholastic work and is leaving school to enter business. Tom Nichols, another star football lineman, also finished his work in school during the first semester and was to take up business. Nichols played guard or center on the varsity team for three years and was a tower of strength to the line both on the offense and defense. In addition he represented the varsity with the hammer and mallet in the spring track and field events.

The third of the famous athletes to leave school is Johnny Bennett, the crack swimmer, who completed his studies in the first semester and will receive his degree in June. Bennett holds the conference records in both the 40 and 100 yard dashes and his loss to the swimming team will be felt for a long time. Although the students at Wisconsin will regret to see the three crack athletes depart each will carry the best wishes of the entire student body with them as all were popular with all classes.

Pin Expert Shows Elks New Tricks

Elks bowlers Friday night had a chance to see some fancy pinmanship when Jim Mahoney of Milwaukee displayed a bunch of hooks and back-up balls comparatively unknown in this part of the country. Mahoney exhibited uncanny ability to smash up the 17 to split with either a hook ball or a back-up, and generally brought his totals up above 200. He control of the ball was marvelous and apparently there was no split which he could not master. His demonstration was watched by a large number of fans who came away with plans to show the rest of the Appleton bowling world a trick or two at the next opportunity.

Savannah, Ga. — Young Stribling, Georgia light-heavyweight, knocked out 'Roundhouse' Ross of Miami, Fla. in the second round of a scheduled ten round bout.

Skaters Urged To Be At Rink 15 Minutes Before Races Start

Preparations Are Completed For Gold Medal Skating Tournament At Jones Park Rink Tonight.

The announcement that the Gold Medal skating tournament would be held Saturday evening in Jones park was received with a burst of interest and it is believed an enormous crowd will be on hand to see the skaters get started at 7 o'clock. The course was marked off Friday afternoon and on a few details are left to be arranged.

Skaters are urged to be at the rink at least 15 minutes before 7 o'clock so that everything can be in readiness for the crack of the gun at 7. Sixteen events are included in the program which will require about two hours to run off.

The contests start with elimination dashes for the intermediate and junior boys in which a large number of skaters are entered. Finals in these events will be held later during the evening.

PLENTY OF LIGHT Plenty of light will be assured for the ice so that the races can be seen as easily as if they were held during the day. Spectators will be permitted on the bridge if they do not congregate there in too large numbers and there is lots of room around the edges of the rink. At least 5,000 people can be comfortably accommodated. Printed programs will be distributed so the spectators will be able to identify the skaters from the numbers they wear on their backs.

The ice was found to be in very good condition, assuring excellent time. The course will be marked by flags at the turns and down the straightways. Patrol judges will be stationed along the track to see that none of the rules are violated.

Gold and silver medals go to the winners of the various events and a silver loving cup will be given to the city champion. The championship will be determined on a point system, awarding five points to winners, three points for second place and one point for third place in each of the three events in the senior division.

Fifty skaters have been entered in the races and it is believed the great majority of them will appear twice to take part in the contests. The tournament has been postponed twice because of unfavorable weather conditions but this has not detracted from the interest.

LAWRENCE MATMEN FIGHT FOR TITLE

Purvis, Kanis And Stoker Advance To Semifinals By Winning Wednesday

Lawrence matmen Wednesday afternoon clashed in the second last series of their elimination bouts for the all campus wrestling championship before a capacity crowd in the wrestling room of Alexander gymnasium. In the first bout, Purvis took two out of three falls from Temple two out of three falls from Temple after the first had ended in a draw. They are in the 145 pound class.

Kanis threw Steinberg for two straight falls in the second. The men are in the 175 pound class. Stoker forced Klug's shoulders to the mat in the first two falls of their match in the 185 pound class.

The semifinals will be staged next Saturday at 2 P. M. in the wrestling room of Alexander gymnasium. In the 145 pound class Gomers meets Clayton Stoker and Klug clash in the 185 pound class while Nobles and Thiers lock horns in the same class.

BANKS ON LUTZKE

Tris Speaker is confident that Babe Lutzke will be a much improved ball player the coming season. Lutzke lacked only confidence in his real ability last year, according to the Cleveland leader.

10,685 KEGLERS CLASH IN A. B. C. MEET IN CHICAGO

Bowling Classic Attracts More Entries Than And Other Sport Tourney

Chicago—The greatest tournament in the history of the American Bowling Congress will get under way here Feb. 22 to continue for 36 days, with a record breaking list of 2,131 teams—10,685 individual pin smashers—entered in the competition for prize money running close to $105,000.

In addition to the 2,131 five men teams, there will be 4,700 two men teams in the hunt for a slice of the prize fund, while 9,447 individuals will compete for the individual championship. The total entry fee amounts to $147,510, apportioned as follows: $83,275 in the five men team competition, $44,000 in the doubles and $47,235 in the individual events.

The bowlers will come from all quarters of America, including Canada, giving the tournament an international flavor. Exactly 100 cities will be represented outside of Chicago. Milwaukee furnished the largest out of town entry sending 120 teams. Detroit, an expected bidder for the 1935 tournament, entered 100; Cleveland and Cincinnati each contributed 32, Toledo 25 and Columbus 15. New York City will have ten teams in the competition and there will be teams from Newark, Orange and Elizabeth, N. J., and Buffalo, which will be represented by 35 teams. Teams also are entered from San Jose, California, Toronto and Winnipeg, Can., and as far South as Jacksonville, Fla.

MAROONS INVADE OSHKOSH SUNDAY

Appleton Puckchasers Lock Horns With Chief Rivals For First Time

Appleton puckchasers Sunday will clash with Oshkosh for the first time since the opening of the season according to the plans agreed upon by managers of both these teams and Kaukauna.

The original schedule called for a game at Kaukauna between that team and Appleton, but owing to the postponement of scheduled games due to plans for the Post-Crescent skating derby, and the possibility of another clash putting an end to hockey, the two undefeated leaders of the valley league have determined to get together for a test of their strength before it is too late.

Oshkosh has been playing hockey for several years, and every player on the team is an experienced veteran. Appleton is putting in its first season but this far has not tasted defeat. The speed and endurance of the Maroons offset their lack of experience as a team, and Sunday's contest should give Oshkosh a hard battle.

ZIVIC COMING STRONG

Now that Pat Moian has faded from the picture as a challenger of Benny Leonard, young Jack Zivic of Pittsburgh begins to loom as a dangerous challenger. Young Zivic has been going great guns of late.

Track Star

CHET BOWMAN

Everybody knew Chet Bowman was a great football player. Look what he did at Syracuse last fall. Made one record after another. Everybody knew he was fast, too. Not just fast, but sure 'nuff fast. But few people figured he could beat Loren Murchison and Bob McAlister, two of the greatest sprinters in the world. Yet that's what this Syracuse football star did. Best 'em badly in a 60 yard dash, stepping the distance in 8.35 seconds. Swiftly is right.

Big Indian Star Quits Grid Squad

Omaha—John Levi, giant Haskell Indian fullback, chosen on many mythical All-American football teams this winter, won't play on the gridiron next season. John says he will try out with either the Tanks or the Cleveland Indians. He's a first sacker and outfielder with a record of 11 homers with the Haskell Institute last season.

John says he won't return to school. He's to finish the eighth grade this year and could play eight more years at Haskell, where no conference red tape makes him ineligible.

MILLER MISSED .300 COLUMN BY ONE LONELY HIT

Philadelphia Athletic Star Lost Promised Bonus By Small Margin

Philadelphia—One little base hit, whether it be a line drive or drooping fly that goes safe, often means considerable to a player's batting average. For example, take the case of Bing Miller, hard hitting outfielder of the Philadelphia Athletics. When the 1923 season opened it is understood that Connie Mack promised Miller a substantial bonus if he batted .300 or better. Mack realized that his club needed a batting punch and hoped the extra cash promised would spur Miller on to a big year at the bat.

At the close of the campaign unofficial averages made it appear that Miller had taken down the bonus. The official averages of the American League, however, gave Miller's average as .299 and a fraction of a point, not enough to entitle him to be ranked in the .300 class.

Delving into the figures it is discovered that if Miller had made just one more hit, his mark would have been a trifle better than .300. No doubt Miller can recall many a base hit that the official scorer called an error. Likewise, he must have memories of many a hit that he beat out only to have the umpire wave him to the bench.

The pleasing part of the story is the report that Miller did not lose the bonus promised. Connie Mack, always fair, realized that Miller had done his best and so nearly reached the set mark that he slipped him the bonus.

Appleton Climbs To Conference Lead As Fond du Lac Slumps

Orange Humbles East Green Bay, 23 To 12, While Manitowoc Upsets Dope And Beats Leaders, 15 To 9

CONFERENCE STANDINGS
	W	L	Pct
Appleton	5	1	.834
Fond du Lac	5	2	.714
Oshkosh	3	2	.600
Manitowoc	3	3	.500
Sheboygan	2	3	.400
East Green Bay	2	4	.334
West Green Bay	1	6	.143

FRIDAY'S RESULTS

Appleton 23, East Green Bay 12. Manitowoc 15, Fond du Lac 9. Oshkosh 21, Sheboygan 13.

Appleton high school Friday night was lifted back to the top of the Valley conference when the Orange defeated East Green Bay 23 to 12, and Manitowoc upset the dope by humbling Fond du Lac, which last week displaced Appleton in the lead, 15 to 9.

The final quarter brought 12 points for the Orange and 4 for the Baymen, who were rushed off their feet by the invaders' brilliant attack.

MANITOWOC UPSETS DOPE Manitowoc advanced several steps on the conference ladder when it upset the dope bucket and vanquished the leaders from Fond du Lac, 15 to 9, in an extremely hardfought contest at Manitowoc. Fondy scored but one fieldgoal during the entire game and made all the rest of its points on freethrows. Shieck, Manitowoc's stand guard, played the most brilliant game of both teams, and his defense was practically impenetrable. C. Lor scored 11 of Manitowoc's points with three freethrows and four bas hits.

Oshkosh also climbed a couple of notches, humbling the string Sheboygan five, 24 to 13.

Swifty is right.

Billiard Aces Soon Will Have To Use Caddies

Pretty soon the billiard players will be using caddies. They of the stars go through important matches any more with only one cue.

Willie Hoppe, for instance uses a certain type of cue to play a mass shot and an entirely different type to play a draw shot.

Just as a golfer will use a wooden club for a long drive and a mashing niblick for a short pitch. George Spang, professional exhibition player, uses five different cues. The cues vary as to length, weight and thickness.

Frank Ives, former world's champion billiardist, set the fashion in this respect. Ives always used three different cues during a match.

Ripon—Beloit college won its seventh straight game of the season Friday night when it defeated Ripon in a well played game by a score of 33 to 15. Expert passing enabled Beloit to win and hold its place in a tie with Carleton college for the leadership in the Mid-West conference.

New Orleans, La. — Gene Turney New York light heavyweight, champion of America, had no difficulty in defending his title in his 15-round encounter with Martin Burke of New Orleans here Friday night.

The champion outclassed the local man in every round.

Mabel Neimand in regard to one of those Hollywood things. "I said, come on, you drive does, let's go."

Foster Keaton won a race at Jia Juana the other day, making a joke of his field, as might be expected.

A Chicago firelighter sang a love ballad over the radio and an enthusiastic fan couldn't help remarking, "Ain't his foot work lovely."

It is rumored the Padlock affair will be hushed up. We would be more pleased if the principals were hushed up.

We can't understand why they call Johnny Weissmuller the human fish. He doesn't look like a fellow who'd pay $7.50 to see a Broadway revue.

The right field foul line at the Yankees' park has been lengthened 35 feet. You should feel gratified to know that the 1921 foul balls are to be that much longer.

FIVE-MAN BOWLING ENDS SUNDAY AT JANESVILLE MEET

Tourney Has Been Most Successful In State For Many Years

By Associated Press Janesville — Five-man shooting in the twenty-second annual Wisconsin state bowling tournament will come to an end at midnight Sunday and mark the close of the thirty-first day of hammering.

The doubles and singles will conclude their bombardment at 5 P. M. Monday. When the last ball has been rolled, the greatest state tourney ever held and the second greatest kegglebunt on record, will have ended a month and a day of a successful run. Not for years has there been such a tourney as that held in Janesville. The five-man, doubles and singles competitors have rained the wood for unusually excellent marks.

Upon paper there are quintets that should unspool the wood for money counts over the week-end, but there is nothing to indicate that first place in any event will change. After the men come the women. The fifth annual meet of the Wisconsin Women's Bowling association will start its invasion here Tuesday afternoon with local booster teams occupying the slides.

The best doubles score Friday was 1,146 by a Kenosha pair, B. Hartl and E. Lauer.

In singles, Friday, A. Dohr of Madison was high with 640. He had 203 212 225.

A team of boosters that rarely gets above 2,500 at home smashed the pins Friday night for 2,840, the highest five-man tally shot. In several days that record will be broken.

The Wisconsin Bowling Association is a 23 fineless than necessary to be for tenth. The team opened with 961; got 866 and closed with 1,013.

J. Wrench of this outfit started for the day with 250.

Milwaukee Madison, Manitowoc, Delavan, Lake Mills, West Bend, Green Bay, Sheboygan, Oregon, Portage and Janesville teams will be the last to compete in the tourney Saturday and Sunday.

England was beaten by Sweden in a baseball race. And we suppose the new Labor party had something to do with that, too.

Tox Rickard writes that all prize-fights should be held in the open air. No one will deny that most of them need the air.

It is difficult to believe that the gamblers put $5000 under Joe Jackson's pillow.

The tennis stars will not be permitted to write about themselves any more, but we fear there's nothing that can keep them from talking about themselves.

THE GREAT UNWASHED Joe Jackson, testifying in the Black Sox suit, "I said to the what do you take me for, a dirty bum."

Mabel Neimand in regard to one of those Hollywood things. "I said, come on, you drive does, let's go."

RAINBOW GARDENS AGAIN PERMITTED TO HOLD PARTIES

County Supervisor Has Not Authority To Close Halls, Chairman Says

Rainbow Gardens, resort on the Little Chute rd., is again permitted to operate, inasmuch as its license previously granted by George F. Fiedler, chairman of the county board of supervisors, was approved by the board at its closing session Saturday morning.

The resort had been closed a week ago by F. A. Grant, county supervisor from Grand Chute, upon complaint of his dance hall inspector, Jacob J. Demerath, and issuance of further dance permits was withheld.

Members of the county board objected to confirmation of the appointment of Demerath as inspector, and Mr. Grant, upon request withdrew the inspector's name from the list endorsed by the board Saturday morning.

Charges made by Demerath to the effect that Rainbow Gardens was operating beyond the regulation closing hour and permitting drunkenness and improper dancing within it were not investigated by the board. Supervisor P. H. Ryan, while emphasizing the need of enforcing the dance ordinance maintained that Demerath was not the right man for the inspector's job.

Chairman Fiedler notified the members that county supervisors are without authority to withhold dance hall permits, and that dance hall inspectors can close a dance hall only for that one night in which the ordinance is being violated. It is for the county chairman or the county board to issue a hearing and after a hearing revoke the dance hall license, after which no more permits can be issued. He was sustained in this opinion by John A. Lonsdorf, district attorney.

ADJUSTED COMPENSATION IS DEBT DUE SOLDIERS

That the adjusted compensation bill for ex-service men takes care of a simple justice to the service men was opinion which H. J. Pettigrew voiced in his address to members of the American Legion post and citizens of Little Chute on Friday evening. The speaker made the point that adjusted compensation is an honest debt owed by the government and should be paid with all other war debts.

MANY RESERVATIONS FOR C. OF C. FORUM DINNER

Reservations for the Chamber of Commerce forum dinner on Tuesday were being made on Saturday, indicating an unusual interest in the debate on unemployment insurance. The debaters who will present the unemployment situation have worked very hard on the case and have many facts to present to all employers of labor. It is expected that a large number of employers will be present.

W.R.C. Holds Program To Honor Lincoln

A Lincoln program was given at the regular meeting of the Womans Relief Corps auxiliary of the Grand Army of the Republic Friday afternoon in Odd Fellow hall. Mrs. Jane Beach read an article entitled "Characterizing the Lincoln Country." Mrs. C. Fox read a paper on "Lincoln's Early Friends" and Mrs. P. Sutherland told of "The Lincoln Circuit." Several comrades told of their contact with Lincoln and their impressions of him.

At a short business meeting, candidates were balloted upon and three new members were initiated.

PLAN MARDI GRAS FOR CATHOLIC HOME

A Mardi Gras will take place at the Catholic home on Monday, March 3. The entertainment will be a pre-Lenten affair for members of all the Catholic societies housed in the home. The executive committee for the party, the proceeds of which will be used for some needed improvements in the home, will include Gustave Keller as general chairman, James Balliet, secretary and Edward Vaughn, treasurer with the following chairmen of committees: Mrs. Otto Wolter, bazaar; J. E. Schweitzer, cards; Edward Kulloren, prizes; Lawrence Sommers, entertainment; Mrs. Norbert Roemer, lunch; Nicholas Nooyen, novelties. The committees will plan their own parts of the program before the next meeting of the executive committee. The tentative arrangement will include cards, bazaars, contests and general entertainment.

FIVE CANDIDATES IN SIXTH WARD FOR MEMBER OF COUNCIL

Fiedler And Koehn Set In Race —Mrs. Buxton Denies Candidacy

Two more candidates for election as aldermen from the Sixth ward have been announced since publication of political gossip in Friday's Post-Crescent, making five in all. J. H. Fiedler, about whom it was said that he probably would not be a candidate, has entered the field and his nomination papers are in circulation. Jacob Koehn also is said to be a candidate and soon will make public announcement that he is in the campaign.

Mrs. R. A. Buxton Saturday morning put a quietus to rumors that she might be a candidate for alderman from the First ward by emphatically stating that she is not seeking election and has never thought of it. The fact remains, however, that she was discussed as a potential candidate.

Rumors were afloat Saturday morning that an effort would be made to induce Attorney Paul V. Cary to become a candidate for mayor. So far as is known, Mr. Cary has not been approached on the subject.

BRILLION IS WINNER IN TRIANGULAR DEBATE

Casco won from East DePere in the final debate at East DePere on Friday evening while Brillion won in the triangle with Neenah and Two Rivers, defeating both the negative and affirmative cases. These are the first reports of the elimination debates in the Lawrence league. Many other triangles and duels took place on Friday evening and will continue through the week.

The DePere team which was scheduled to debate at Casco missed its train on Friday afternoon. The debate will take place on Saturday night at Casco.

Lions Initiate

Five candidates will be initiated into the Lions club at its regular meeting at 12:15 Monday in Conway hotel. The ceremony will be put on by officers of the club.

ATTENTION

Knights of Pythias Kindly convene at Castle Hall, Mon., 1:30 to attend funeral of Bro. Julius Kahn Joseph Kox, C. G.

Broken Hearts Dance Features Party At H. S.

Hearts were the feature of the dance which the student council of Appleton high school gave for the students at the school on Friday evening. The decorations consisted of hearts of the various couples about the school as well as a few hearts for rent and others broken.

Several feature dances were put on. A broken heart dance which was similar to a robber dance proved the most popular event of the evening. Four small broken hearts were given to four extras in the dance and these were given to the unfortunates whose partners were taken from them by extras. These in turn passed the hearts on to some other unfortunates.

Serpentine was used to liven up the party. When the score of the basketball game with Green Bay was announced, all the dancers gave a rousing cheer for the team.

FOREIGN WARS ORDER PICKS APRIL 8 AS MEETING DATE

The annual meeting and dinner of Wisconsin Commandery of the Military Order of Foreign Wars will be held Tuesday, April 8, but the city in which they will be held has not been selected. At the last meeting it was decided to change the date from Feb. 22 to April 8, the date of the declaration of war with Germany, but as that date this year falls on Sunday it was decided to meet two days later. The membership includes veterans of several cities of Fox river valley.

POLICE SOON WILL START COLLECTING DOG TAXES

Owners of dogs who have not procured their 1924 dog license are subject to prosecution under the law and may expect to be visited within the next few days by collectors who will make a house to house canvass for delinquents. The tax is due and the city authorities are about to force collections.

Miss Selma Gruett left Saturday for Brillion where she will spend the weekend with her parents.
